DEMAND THAT GREEKS SURRENDER FLEET

GREECE TO COMPLY WITH ULTIMATUM

Entente Demands Control of Piraeus-Larissa Railway

WANT FORTS DISMANTLED

Demands Are Made To Insure the Safety of the Allied Fleet

GIVEN UNTIL 1 P. M. TODAY

London, Oct. 11.—Vice Admiral Dartige du Fournet, commander of the Anglo-French fleet in the Mediterannean has presented an ultimatum to Greece, demanding that Greece hand over the entire Greek fleet, except the armored cruisr Avroff and the batleships Lemnos and Kilkis to the Entente Allies by one o'clock Wednesday afternoon, according to Reuter's Athens correspondent. Demand is also made for the control of the Piraeus-Larissa railway.

"The minister of marine," the correspondent continues "says Vice Admiral Fournet's demads will be complied with and that the fleet will be handed over before the prescribed time.

"The demands were made as a precautionary measure to insure the safety of the allied fleet."

It is explained that the dispatch of artillery and ammunition to the interior, the movements of Greek ships and the continued activity of the reservists have aroused fears of a disturbance at points where the Allies' war vessels are anchored and also endanger the security of the Allied troops on the Balkan front.

Vice Admiral du Fournet demands the disarming of the Kilkis, Lemnos and Averoff and the dismantling of the forts on the seacoast while the two forts commanding the fleet's moorings are to be made over to the admiral.

In addition to the disarming of the warships named their crews are to be reduced to one third their regular complement.

The Greek navy consists of five battleships, the Kilkis, Lemnos, Psara, Spetsai, and Hydra; one armored cruiser the Averoff; the coast defense ship Basileus Georgios;; the cruisers Helli and Naurchos Miaulis; ten gun boats; seventeen torpedo boat destroyers; nine torpedo boats, three submarines and several transports and other craft. The Greek naval force has been estimated at 4,000 officers and men.

Recently there have been reports that Greek warships have deserted the navy and joined the revolutionary forces.

The battleships in the Greek navy are the Kilkis and Lemnos, which are respectively the former American battleships Idaho and Mississippi. These vessels were sold to Greece in 1914, Greece paying $12,535,275 for them. The Helli was built by the New York Shipbuilding Co., as the Fei Hung for China and purchased by Greece in 1914.

Some of the former craft were captured from Turkey in 1897. It is probable that the despatch of Reuter's correspondent was delayed in transmission from Athens to London.

FIRE INTO STRIKERS; ONE WOMAN KILLED

BAYONNE, N. J., Oct. 11.—A woman was killed, two men probably mortally wounded and a half dozen other persons less seriously hurt, when the police fired a volley tonight into a crowd of Standard Oil strikers and their sympathizers, which was demolishing a fire engine. The engine had responded to an alarm and had been held up by a barricade thrown across the street by the strikers.

The woman killed was Miss Sophia Torack, 20 years old. She was struck in the head by a bullet and died at the Bayonne hospital. Two men, one a striker, are in critical condition with several bullet wounds in their bodies.

Two other men are in the hospital with less serious wounds. Several others were shot according to the police and taken away by friends. None of the policemen or firemen were injured.

NEW AND NOVEL PHASE OF CAMPAIGN DEVELOPS

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—A new and novel phase of the campaign of the Woman's Party developed here today when Mrs. H. O. Havenmyer of New York, spoke for fifteen minutes between acts of a popular play at a downtown theatre.

She urged her hearers to vote against President Wilson on the grounds that the national administration has consistently opposed a constitutional amendment enfranchising women.

WILSON NAMES ADVISORY DEFENSE COMMITTEE

Announces Appointment While Enroute To Indianapolis

Executive Hopes Council Will "Become a Rallying Point for Civic Bodies Working for the National Defense."

On Board President Wilson's Special, Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 11.—President Wilson enroute to Indianapolis tonight announced the appointment of members to the advisory committee to be associated with the Council of National Defense created by Congress at the last session. At the same time he gave out a statement saying he hoped the council will "become a rallying point for civic bodies working for the national defense."

The seven members named by the president are Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad; Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor; Dr. Franklin H. Martin of Chicago; Howard E. Coffin of Detroit; Bernard Baruch, of New York; Dr. Hollis Godfrey of Philadelphia and Julius Rosenwald of Chicago.

The President's statement follows:

"The council of national defense has been created because the congress has realized that the country is best prepared for war when thoroly prepared for peace. From an economic point of view there is now very little difference between the machinery required for commercial efficiency and that required for military purposes. In both cases the whole industrial mechanism must be organized in the most effective way. Upon this conception of the national welfare the council is organized in the words of the Act for the creation of relations which will render possible in time of need the immediate concentration and utilization of th eresources of the nation.' The organization of the council likewise opens up a new and direct channel of communication and co-operation between business and scientific men and all departments of the government, and it is hoped that it will, in addition, become a rallying point for civic bodies working for the national defense.

"The council's chief functions are:

"1: The coordination of all forms of transportation and the development of means of transportation to meet the military, industrial and commercial needs of the nation.

"2: The extension of the industrial mobilization work of the committee on industrial preparedness of the naval consulting board. Complete information as to our present manufacturing and producing facilities adaptable to many sided uses of modern warfare will be procured, analyzed and made use of.

"One of the objects of the council will be to inform American manufacturers as to the part which they can and must play in national emergency. It is empowered to establish at once and maintain, thru subordinate bodies of specially qualified persons an auxiliary organization composed of men of the best creative and administrative capacity, capablte of mobilizing to the utmost the resources of the country.

"The personnel of the council's advisory members, appointed without regard to party, marks the entrance of the non-partisan engineer and professional man into American governmental affairs on a wider scale than ever before. It is responsive to the increased demand for and need of business organization in public matters and for the presence thereon of the best specialists in their respective fields. In the present instance the time of the members of the advisory board could not be purchased. They serve the government without remuneration, efficiency being their sole object and Americanism their only motive."

Cantu stated he recently wrote a letter to Gen. Carranza for Robles, demanding that the first chief retire at once; civil governors replace the military governors in the various states and the cabinet ministers be named from civil life. If these demands are refused Robles threatened to head a general revolt against the de facto government, his secretary declared.

EXPECT NEW RECORD FOR RESOURCES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—A new high record for resources and deposits and a wider distribution of money than ever before will be shown by complete returns from the national bank call of Sept. 12 in the opinion of the treasury officials after examination of figures reported by fifty five reserve cities and country banks in several states. Most of the big eastern money centers have lost materially in deposits since the call of May 1 these figures show and there has been more than an offsetting increase in smaller cities and in country districts.

The decrease in New York City since May 1 amounted to $222,000,000; San Francisco reported a gain of more than $35,000,000 and Chicago more than $7,000,000. Increases in country deposits are shown in the case of each of ten states from which returns are complete.

HUGHES SPEAKS IN WEST VIRGINIA

Outlines His Policy Toward The Maintenance of American Rights

NO THREATS TO CONVEY

Asserts Policy of Enforcement of Rights Is Not a Policy of War

LEAVES FOR KENTUCKY

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 11.—Charles Evans Hughes in his twelve-hour campaign thru West Virginia today outlined before audiences his policy towards the maintenance of American rights, declared that in stating his stands he had "no agreements with anybody," and referred to the United States as "being before the world a great nation to vindicate the integrity of international law and the rights of neutrals."

"We have no threats to convey," he told an audience at Huntington. "We simply insist that life, property and commerce of American citizens thruout the world shall be accorded privileges recognized in international law and that as a neutral nation vindicating the integrity of international law, we shall maintain those rights without fear, as respects all nations."

To an audience at Parkersburg, Mr. Hughes said:

"I stand for the development of the American nation, according to the genius of its institutions; for the honor of our country in the protection of American citizens and with respect to every American right on land and sea, for its firm enforcement.

"I stand unflinchingly for the maintenance of the rights of American citizens with respect to life, property and commerce."

In repeating these statements here tonight the nominee coupled with them a statement made earlier in the day before an audience at Parkersburg.

"I have no understanding, no agreements, no intrigues with anybody," he said. "But I stand for the interests of the United States and the protection of American lives, American property and American commerce thruout the world."

A man in the Huntington audience shouted to Mr. Hughes, "What about the Virginia debt case?"

"The Virginia debt is a matter," Mr. Hughes replied quickly, "to which the supreme court of the United States gave its best consideration, a decision which you and everybody else ought to respect."

A roar of applause greeted this statement.

"We are dealing with the record of the present administration," Mr. Hughes said. "When that administration's record is examined its defenders seem to protest as if it were a subject which should not be critically analyzed. We cannot make progress in that way.

"I desire to consider some of the actions which have been taken in order that we may make a fair estimate. The other day it was said that the alternative of the present policy of the administration was war, that anyone who undertook to criticize that action must necessarily favor war. I am a man of peace and it is because I desire to see American peace safeguarded that I insist upon a firm and unflinching maintenance of American rights and such policies as will deserve and hold the esteem of the entire world.

"The policy of a sound enforcement of unknown rights is not a policy of war. It is a policy of security, of self-respect. When this nation forgets the dignity of its own citizenship, and the rights of its own citizens, it will enter upon a period of decadence; will invite insults and will surely end in overwhelming disaster."

Mr. Hughes reviewed American relations with Mexico and declared the administration's policy had been one of intermittent war.

"When we summoned the entire National Guards to our border what condition was that, a condition of peace or a condition of war?" he asked. "The judge advocate of the army has given it as his opinion that it was a condition of war."

Mr. Hughes read the Democratic platform plank of 1912 declaring for the protection of American rights.

"That is what the Democratic party was elected on," he said, "and they had no right to desert that policy upon which they promised faithfully to stand.

"We want peace; we want peace that is honorable, peace that squares with the dignity of American manhood. We can have that sort of peace a great deal easier than we can have the other sort of peace which bars cowardly the self respect of the nation."

The nominee leaned forward and asked the audience whether the administration's threat to put Huerta out," was a policy of peace or a policy of war.

"War," shouted a half dozen voices from the crowd. Scores in the audience echoed the word. Their voices were drowned in the cheering that followed.

"What about the embargo on arms?" shouted another man. "Tell us about that."

"Yes I'll tell you about that." the nominee replied.

"The administration put an embargo on arms then took it off, then put it on again, then stopped it once more and arms were going to this bandit and that bandit with the result that the American soldiers slain in Mexico were slain with American bullets."

The audience cheerd again.

Mr. Hughes also spok on the tariff and renewed his attack on the administration for the enactment of the Adamson law.

He left here at 11 p. m. for points in Kentucky.

War News Summarized

The Italians have again taken the offensive against the Austrians in their endeavor to reach Trieste, Austria's chief port on the Adriatic, and at several points south and southeast of Gorizia have made good progress and in addition taken nearly 6,000 prisoners.

South of Gorizia the Austrian line was broken between Tobara and Vertebia, according to Rome, and on the Carso front entrenchments between the Vipacco river and Hill 208 were captured. Here the town of Novavilla and a strong position around the northern part of the hill fell into the hands of the attackers. Trenches in the Trentino region also have been won by the Italians and 530 Austrians made prisoners.

In Transylvania the forces of the Teutonic Allies are continuing their drive against the Roumanians along almost all of the front. Bavarian troops which captured the Rothenthurm Pass have now crossed the border into Roumania.

According to Bucharest which admits the retirement of the Roumanians around Kronstadt, fierce Teutonic attacks were repulsed south of Hermannstadt with heavy casualties to the attackers.

Berlin concedes the capture by the French of a German salient near Vermandovillers south of the Somme river in France and also by the British of first line trenches near Sailly, north of the Somme. Violent counter attacks by the Germans on the newly captured positions of the French in the Chaulnes wood have been repulsed. In the Vosges mountains the Germans invaded some French trenches but later were driven out.

On the Struma river in Greek Macedonia the British have made a further advance occupying the town of Papalova and Prosenik while the French have taken trenches on the west of Deviedjili, which lies on the Greek-Serbian border southwest of Doiran. Fierce fighting is going on between the Bulgars and Serbs on the front below Monastirfi the Bulgarians having received reinforcements. Berlin says that along the Cerna river and west of the Vardar Entente Allied attacks were repulsed.

The British official press bureau announces the German losses in the war up to the end of September as follows: Dead, 870,182; prisoners and missing, 428,829; wounded, 2,257,007—a total of 3,556,018. The figures are declared to have been complied from German official lists.

TRIES TO REPRIMAND SON AND IS KILLED

BUNKER HILL, Ill., Oct. 11.—Henry Wheeler, aged 04 years, shot and killed his father, Joseph Wheeler, aged 86 years, a Civil War veteran, when the latter attempted to reprimand him in their home here today. The son had been released from jail on a disorderly conduct charge and the elder Wheeler, thinking to give him a lesson brandished a revolver, and later discharged the gun three times, it is said.

Henry Wheeler thereupon secured a shotgun and sent the charge into his father's face. The victim died almost instantly. The son was arrested and placed in jail at Carlinville. He is reported to have said his act was on eof self-defense.

FIND GASOLINE PUMPS GIVE SHORT MEASURE

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Eighty-two per cent of the gasoline pumps in use at garages and other gasoline selling agencies in Illinois have been found to be giving short measure. A survey completed today by the federal bureau of weights and measures reports that at only 18 per cent of the pumps, does a motor owner get the full amount of gasoline for which he pays.

Lewis G. Stevenson, secretary of state of Illinois, declared today he would have a bill providing for a state department of weights and measures introduced at the next session of the legislature.

The average shortage in the pumps was 3.91 cubic inches a gallon in this city and 7 inches a gallon in the state.

The shortage was estimated at 5,000,000 gallons a year which at the price of twenty centy a gallon would mean a loss of $1,000,000 a year to Illinois motorists.

TRIBUNE FILES DEMURRER

Chicago, Oct. 11—The Chicago Tribune today filed a demurrer in the United States District Court in the $1,000,000 suit filed against it by Henry Ford, the Detroit automobile manufacturer. The demurrer contends that the article printed in The Tribune criticizing Mr. Ford because of his attack on the preparedness campaign does not constitute a libel. Counsel for The Tribune declared that argument on the demurrer would show just what issues are involved and would have the effect of clearing the decks for action.

AWAIT COMPLETE REPORTS ON RAID

U. S. Will Not Determine Policy Until All Facts Are Known

SECRETARY RETURNS

No Evidence of Breaking of German Promises to U. S. Discovered So Far

GERARD'S STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—The policy of the United States regarding the recent U-boat raid off the New England coast will not be determined until much more complete information asc to all the facts has been received. This was announced by Secretary Lansing tonight after his return from his conference on the subject with President Wilson at Shadow Lawn.

Other officials indicated much would depend on Rear Admiral Knight's forthcoming report on all the naval phases of the raid, particularly the steps taken to insure the safety of passengers.

The secretary appeared in unusually good spirits on his return. He was emphatic in declaring that the government's attitude would remain undetermined until a complete investigation had been made but he would not indicate what decision he had gained from the president, with whom final decision rests.

Officials here expect that the report from Rear Admiral Knight, which will be based on the statements of officers on the relief flotilla of American destroyers that were at the scene of the raid off Nantucket, will be ready for consideration within a few days.

Before any policy is determined upon it is expected that the opinion of the neutrality board created at the beginning of the war to advise the state department in regard to such questions will be consulted.

Will Continue Investigation

On Board President Wilson's Special, Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 11—As a result of the conference last night and early today between President Wilson and Secretary Lansing at Long Branch, N. J., it was stated authoritatively tonight that no evidence of the breaking of German promises to the United States had been discovered so far, in connection with the submarine activities off the American coast last Sunday but that the American government will continue its investigations and will watch very closely any repetition of the attacks.

The only direct comment on the discussion between the president and Secretary Lansing obtainable from official sources tonight was that every angle of the submarine situation had been discussed during the conference and that new problems brought to the front by the activities of German submarines so near the American coast had been gone over thoroly.

Gerard Denies Reports

New York, Oct. 11—James W. Gerard, United States ambassador to Germany who returned here yesterday on his first vacation in nearly three years, issued a formal statement late today in which he denied that his home coming had been caused by the need of warning the administration at Washington of Germany's intention to resume indiscriminate submarine warfare against neutral, as well as hostile shipping. The ambassador's statement follows:

"You may say that it is not true, that I came home at this time to serve notice on the President, of Germany's intention to repudiate her pledges regarding the conduct of submarine warfare or that Germany was contemplating the resumption of submarine attacks upon all kinds of shipping.

"I say to you, what I said to a reporter for the Berliner Tageblatt at Copenhagen before I sailed: I should not think of leaving my post at this time if I were not convinced that the relations between my country and Germany were as friendly as could be and gave every promise of continuing so indefinitely."

Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Kost of Dixon are in the city for a visit of several days with their son, Byron D. Kost.

Fred B. Henderson of Arcadia is the Republican candidate for circuit clerk. Mr. Henderson, who has engaged in farming for a number of years, has also had experience in mercantile business. He is an excellent bookkeeper and thru his experience as public administrator has secured a first hand knowledge of some court affairs. Aside from his excellent business qualifications for the office, Mr. Henderson is a man of unquestioned integrity and if elected for circuit clerk it will be his earnest endeavor to give the public the faithful service they expect in that office.

The Peoples' Building.

The license cause was not advanced by the refusal of authorities in Peoria county to allow Prohibition candidates to hold a meeting in the court house there. The reason given was that it was not proper to use a court house for political gatherings. Here in Morgan county any political party and almost any organization can secure the use of the court house for a public gathering. That's the right and proper way of handling a building erected at public expense and for the purpose of caring for the peoples' business.

A Warden With Right Views.

The warden of Missouri penitentiary took advance ground when he recently refused to receive a boy of fifteen brought there under four years' sentence for robbing a store. The warden took the boy before the state board of pardons and secured his release on parole.

It is bad enough to have to be compelled to send young offenders to reform schools, where surroundings are necessarily not of the best; but it is in itself a criminal act to send them to penitentiaries, there to be associated with men schooled in crime.

New Paper Uses.

Paper is taking the place of cotton to a large extent in the industries of Austria-Hungary and is helping solve economic problems resulting from the war. Fabrics of various kinds previously made from cotton are now manufactured from paper and the number of uses is constantly increasing. This information is not especially acceptable to the cotton growers of the south nor to users of paper. In the past six months paper prices have more than doubled, partially because of the war, and if many new uses are discovered for paper the problem of lower prices will be still more difficult of settlement.

Taking the Public into Partnership.

A new idea in settling utility disputes is found in the offer of the Peoples Gas Light & Coke Company of Chicago. The comapny offers rates for a period of five years, which will average 70 1-2c per 1,000 cubic feet. They also offer to take consumers into a profit sharing form of partnership. It is etimated that rebates under the profit sharing plan would amount to 2 1-2c per 1,000 cubic feet, which would bring the net price to consumers down to 68 1-3c.

The enormous business which the company does is indicated by the figures. The estimates are that the amount left for profit sharing between the stockholders and the gas consumers, after deduction of operating expenses, interest on the bonds and 6 per cent on any new securities issued for new capital, would amount to $3,000,000 a year. Stockholders would receive 85 per cent of this sum in lieu of dividends on their stock and consumers would receive 15 per cent.

High Priced Land.

The recent sale of a 65 acre tract of land near Bloomington at a price of $383 an acre set a new record in land sales in McLean county. The tract was not entirely improved and bidders was a greater influence in it is probable that rivalry among reaching the price level than the actual value of the land itself. Yet there are many bankers and other business men who believe that in a comparatively few years good black land in central Illinois will have an average value of $300 an acre.

Just how investment returns can be made on any such price land remains for the farmers themselves to settle by the application of the very best known agricultural methods. It is extremely doubtful if any adequate interest return can be made on the McLean county purchase. The owner, even if satisfied with 4 1-2 per cent, must make the land average each year about $18. Morgan county farmers know that is a difficult task. Tho returns from high priced land do not make "good interest," Illinois farm lands continue to be popular as furnishing safe and certain investment possibilities.

Lines For Columbus Day.

'Twas many and many years in the past,
Swept on by the waves and breeze,
With the flag of Spain nailed to her mast
That a frail craft crossed the seas.

Upon the deck stood a frightened crew,
But one bold man was there,
Who kept a steadfast purpose in view,
Till he found a land that was fair.

Oh joy when in sight that bright land hove,
He had won his hard-earned fame;
He gave to the world a treasure trove;
It bears not even his name.

But he has a gift that nothing mars
Far greater than gold of mines,
For on Columbia's banner of stars
His glory forever shines.

—S. A. Hughes.

A Woman's View.

It is doubtful if any man has explained his reasons for supporting Mr. Hughes with such clear, convincing logic as characterizes the statement of Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, whose husband was acting American ambassador to Mexico during and for some time before the seizure of Vera Cruz. Mrs. O'Shaughnessy says, "I am for Hughes because with my own eyes I have seen the destruction of a nation; with my own ears I have heard the cries of that bleeding, agonized remnant of what three years ago was the Mexican people; I have seen, under the auspices of the Democratic administration, organized government destroyed in a sovereign state—whose greatest misfortune at this time is to be our neighbor. I have seen authority destroyed as certainly as we had taken the machinery of administration into our physical hands and broken it.

And in regard to all this I have seen installed an organized campaign of misrepresentation where the wrongs of this sister nation are concerned—whereby the cries of the people have been stifled, their agonies concealed, their rights—their human rights—trampled to earth. I have seen the House of God profaned the ministers of Christ cast into ignominy, holy women defiled. And last, but not least, I have seen our citizens, whose right to protection there is as indisputable as that of the sons of England, Germany, France, Spain, Japan, despoiled of the fruits of honest labor. Our women have been outraged, our children tortured, our men left to lie in their blood. Now, with the help of God, and confiding in the underlying greatness of our nation, I hope for the vindication of our honor where other nations are concerned—and the performance of our duty where our own people are concerned. I am for Hughes—because I believe a man has arisen who, as chief executive, will safeguard our most precious possession on land and sea—at home and abroad—our national honor."

Mr. Foss an Able Congressman

Congressman George E. Foss, who made an address in Central Park Wednesday afternoon, has been for years a prominent figure in congress. His record is such that his words have force and speakers of his calibre are able to give material aid in the campaign. For a period of twelve years Congressman Foss held the important post of chairman of the committee of naval affairs and he has the well deserved reputation of having a thoro understanding of naval needs and conditions.

While he was serving on the naval committee, which was controlled by Republicans, the navy of the United States came to second position among the navies of the world. It was after Democratic ascendency and the retirement of Congressman Foss from the committee chairmanship that the United States left that place of honor among the world navies and the Democratic party has consistently fought the policy of navy betterment and enlargement.

Congressman Foss visited Jacksonville several years ago when he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for senator, and the excellent impression he made at that time was strengthened by his visit and address Wednesday.

Rippling Rhymes

SALTED DOWN.

I saved five dollars every week, against the day that's wet and dank, Sometimes it made my spirit shriek, to put that plunder in the bank. For there were sights I longed to see, and junketings I wished to make! to save was such a strain on me, I thought my old tin heart would break. But Susan Jane, my thrifty wife, was always watching at my side; and she would say, "You bet your life, you do not let the kopecks slide. Our strong box must not spring a leak," my wife would say, in solemn tones; "and at the end of every week, you'll pickle five gun-metal bones." I used to wish that Susan Jane were more like other wives I know, that she would think it safe and sane to let the coin for pleasure go. Then I lay down with divers ills, and spent three weary months in bed, my stomach full of drugs and pills, and poultices upon my head. We paid the druggist and the nurse, the doc, who brought me back to health; and if I dodged the village hearse, it was because I'd saved some wealth. To every man there comes a day when Fortune wears a gloomy frown; and, while you're earning coin, I say, it's wise to salt some roubles down.

TERMS REPUBLICAN PARTY A "WAR PARTY"

Senator Reed States Germany is its Intended Antagonist and Roosevelt is Dominant Politician.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 11—United States Senator James A. Reed characterized the Republican Party as a "war party," with Germany its intended antagonist and Theodore Roosevelt as its dominant politician working for the makers of munitions, before an audience here tonight.

"On December 19, 1915, there was held," said Senator Reed, "in the city of New York a most remarkable dinner which has since been commonly known as the modern Belshazzar feast. It was attended by seventeen great capitalists, who possess or control properties worth $120,000,000,000, one tenth of the aggregate value of all the property of 100,000,000 people in the United States. All these gentlemen but one were interested in the manufacture of war supplies. Seated with them was Theodore Roosevelt, the politician, who was to be converted into a war-asset."

Senator Reed closed his address with a plea for sanity at the polls as regards what he terms the real issue of the campaign, "war or peace."

TAKE "CASCARETS" IF HEADACHY BILIOUS AND CONSTIPATED

Best for Liver and Bowels, Bad Breath, Bad Colds, Sour Stomach.

Get a 10-cent box.

Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter, clogged up in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

HOME RULE TO BE ISSUE IN WET & DRY CONTEST

This Proposition Will Be Made Part of Proposed Chicago Legislation—Cermak and McBride Make Statements.

Anton Cermak, secretary of the United Societies, gave out a statement admitting that the next Illinois Senate will be dry, but claims that the situation "will be such that county option, residence district and other dry bills cannot be passed."

The wets are planning to make home rule for Chicago on the Sunday closing question a rider upon the other home rule measures which are sure to be introduced into the next legislature, and to refuse their support to any home rule bill that does not include Sunday closing.

Commenting upon the wet program, F. Scott McBride, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League says:

"We are glad to have Mr. Cermak disclose the wet program. His statement clarifies the issue and draws the line between wets and drys more sharply. Of course, we shall oppose a referendum on the Sunday closing issue and we believe the attempt of the wets to couple this with other home rule measures will lose them votes and will help us in our fight for county option, a residence district bill and other advanced dry legislation. There will be more dry votes in the next legislature then ever before, Mr. Cermak, to the contrary, notwithstanding. Gains have been made in both the downstate counties and in Cook county."

WEEK OF DAIRY MEETINGS PROPOSED

Series Planned for This Vicinity Under Auspices of Illinois State Dairymen's Association.

Local dairymen are in communication with officials of the Illinois State Dairymen's association in regard to a series of meetings to last for a week and to be held at various points in the county, with a large closing session at Jacksonville. This plan is the outgrowth of the state directors' meeting held during the state fair. At that time Jacksonville made a strong request for the annual convention. This request was refused and the 1917 meeting of the state association was assigned to Danville. The vote, however, was very close, Danville winning by one ballot only.

In a letter from George Caven, secretary of the state association, to L. T. Potter of this city, explanation is made as to why Danville was chosen. The majority thought that the convention should go to the east part of the state as that section had been without a meeting of the kind for several years. The last meeting was held at Clinton twelve years ago.

It is possible that the series of dairy metings will be held early in November. When Jacksonville was refused the convention, the plan of holding such a series was at once suggested. Such meetings are of more real benefit to a community than a regular convention, dairy authorities say.

FESTIVAL THRONGS ARE GROWING LARGER

REPUBLICAN SPEAKER HAD LARGE AUDIENCE WEDNESDAY

Lowden and Party Will Come For Tonight's Program—Women's Interests Receive Special Attention Today—Changes in Vaudeville Bill—Governor Dunne Tomorrow.

The Republican mass meeting with Congressman Foss as the orator formed the principal attraction for Festival week Wednesday. There was a large attendance and the meeting was accounted a success.

The perfect weather was a ruling influence in the splendid attendance for there were many visitors in Jacksonville from the country precincts both afternoon and evening. The attractions in Central park proved interesting and visitors who have been present earlier in the week found several "new" things to merit attention.

Today is the woman's county federation day and promises to be one of the most interesting of the week, with special features for women. At 2:30 this afternoon Miss Grace Osborne, state anti-tuberculosis worker in Indiana, will deliver a lecture at the Woman's tent. Again at 7:30 at the tent Miss Osborne will give another lecture which will be illustrated by use of the stereopticon.

Lecturer in Woman's Tent

These lectures will set forth in an interesting and instructive manner the work of the Anti-Tuberculosis Sanitorium, the Public Health Nurse and the Open Air School. Every woman in the county should make an effort to be present as Miss Osborne is a young woman of striking and attractive personality and thoroly conversant with the work in question. The lectures will be educational and pleasing.

Exhibits especially attractive to women are classed as follows:

State Pure Food Exhibit at Dairy Tent.

Egg Candling Exhibit — Dairy Tent.

Poultry Exhibit.

Poster Exhibit—Woman's Tent.

Anti-Tuberculosis Exhibit — Womans Tent.

Automobile Exhibit.

Vaudeville Changes

The free vaudeville attractions which are given at various afternoon and evening hours have pleased the crowds all week. Today there will be a special program of these attractions with an entire change of bill. TRIBUTE PAID TO MR. TILTON'S LIFE

Many Gathered for Service Held Wednesday at Trinity Church—Rector Referred to Deceased as a Witness of Righteous Actions.

Simple but impressive were the funeral services for William I. Tilton held in Trinity church Wednesday afternon at 2 o'clock. The Episcopal service for the dead was read by the Rev. J. F. Langton, rector of the church. Rev. Mr. Langton also departed from the regular service and paid a beautiful tribute to the life of Mr. Tilton. Music was furnished by the choir of the church and Mrs. Andrew Russel sang.

The church was filled with friends of the deceased. The members of the faculty of the State School for the deaf attended as did the older pupils of the school. J. Phillip Read was at the organ and during the service he acted as interpreter for the pupils.

Faithfulness in Life

In preacing his remarks the Rev. Mr. Langton said that he did not often go outside of the regular service but that he felt at this time that a few words of appreciation of Mr. Tilton's life and character would be appropriate.

Rev. Mr. Langton took for his text Revelations 2:10—"Be thou faithful unto death and I will give you a crown of life."

"This is the message which our Lord Jesus Christ put into the mouth of his beloved disciple, St. John, by him to be delivered to the church thruout the world in all the ages to the end of the world. The matchless promise of the Divine Savior, the splendid recognition of His servant's faithfulness and the certainty of immortal life. This has met a response and recognition from the loyal and faithful children of God under all conditions of life.

"When the soul cries out against the infirmities, the limitations and the unequal burdens laid upon many, the words of the text, 'Be thou faithful unto death and I will give you a crown of life' have come as an anchor. A great rock against which the waves of doubt, despair and gloom have dashed in vain.

A Living Witness

"Today because our brother in his daily walk of life was a living witness of the strength, the power, the beauty and the grace of the life hidden in Christ, I depart from our usual custom of not preaching funeral sermons to say a few words upon his Christian character.

"William Tilton was a member of the Church of the living God. Loyal to her creeds, her sacraments, her services and a devoted servant of his Divine Savior. He was one of those referred to in the text, 'Faithful unto death.' How the world honors faithfulness!

"Do you know the story of the 'Lion of Lucerne?' They were faitaful unto death. Their names were enrolled in letters cut in marble. But William Tilton's name has a more enduring record than bronze or marble can perpetuate. His name is written by the hand of God. He was always regular in his Christian duties.

The Influence of Right Living

"A few hours before his death I administered to him the sacrament of the Holy Communion. On leaving I gave him the Savior's promise, 'My Grace is sufficient for thee.' In the feeble smile I knew he understood. A few hours later he passed to receive the 'Crown of Life.'

"Two thougts or lessons I bring to you today that stand out. First, The influence of such a life. He was faithful as a son, a brother, a teacher, associate, and a friend, to every and all the duties and obligations of his life. Surely the men, women, boys and girls whose lives he touched must be helped and uplifted and taught the value of such a life.

"Shall we not be braver from having known him?

"Second—The comfort that comes to relatives, parents, brother and sister and all because they know it is well with him.

"So today I would refer you to the text, 'Let not your heart be troubled. Ye believe in Him, Believe ye also in Me.' This is the great message of the church at this time. Will you not so live here and now that in the end you also will receive the 'Crown of Life."

At the close of the service a hymn was sung by the choir and congregagation and disciples creed was recited after which Rev. Mr. Langton offered a fervent prayer.

There was a profusion of floral offerings and these were cared for by Mrs. Ernest Grassly, Mrs. Matthew Miller, Mrs. George T. Douglas, Miss Josephine Pyatt and Miss Nora Dunlap.

Burial was in Jacksonville cemetery, the bearers being, E. P. Cleary, C. W. Taylor, D. W. George, Fred Schoneman, Harry Snyder and George H. Putnam.

OLD JACKSONVILLE

Phenomenal Weather

By Ensley Moore

Member Illinois State Historical Society.

Young people often have a dazed look when mention is made of "the Deep Snow" or of "the Sudden Freeze." This may not now be surprising. But to the older people of today these terms were household words. Their parents or grandparents had experienced the rigors referred to, and spent much time telling of those times.

There are Indian and white stories about cold weather and high water along in the close of the eighteenth and the beginning of the ninteenth centuries.

The First Hurricane.

Until about 1870, the term applied to wind storms was tornado or hurricane. Probably tornado was used most frequently.

"The first destructive hurricane of which there is any historical mention," says Moses, in his History of Illinois, "is that which occurred on June 5, 1805. The storm moved from the southwest toward the north east, crossing the Mississippi just below the Merrimac river. It swept across the American Bottom, cutting a swath about three quarters of a mile in width, demolishing houses, tearing up trees and destroying cattle, stock, and everything movable in its tempestuous pathway. It swept the water out of lakes, scattering the fish therein far out upon the prairies. It carried in its wrathful embrace, the tops of pine trees from Missouri, fifty miles away. No lives were lost, but several persons were severely wounded by flying rails and timbers".

Since that early day—or rather since 1870—these storms have come to be called cyclones. St. Louis and East St. Louis have been right in their course several times, and they have been very destructive.

Such storms have also prevailed over Morgan county almost since its organization. The path has been about the same in the most noted cases. Such as the storm southeast of Jacksonville, and the Liter cyclone. But there was an earlier "hurricane" west of here about five or six miles, perhaps in the twenties.

The Deep Snow.

The greatest, and longest continued climatic disturbance well known of was "the Deep Snow" of 1830-31.

The old settlers used to refer to it, and their tales made it hard to locate, as the poorness of their memories led them to mistake the year, until it seemed that it might have been anywhere from 1825 to 1835.

No more reliable witness of it, probably told of it, than President Julian M. Sturtevant. He wrote: "In the interval between Christmas 1830, and New Year, 1831, snow fell over Central Illinois to the depth of fully three feet on a level. Then came a rain with weather so cold that it froze as it fell, forming a crust of ice over this three feet of snow, nearly, but not quite strong enough to bear a man, and finally over this crust of ice there was a few inches of very light snow. The clouds pased away and the wind came down from the northwest with extraordinary ferocity. For weeks, certainly for not less than two weeks the mercury in the thermometer was not, on any one morning higher than 12 degrees below zero. The wind was a steady, fierce gale from the northwest, day and night. The air was filled with flying snow, which blinded the eyes and almost stopped the breath of any one who attempted to face it. No man could, for any considerable length of time, make his way on foot against it.

The story of such a winter may be pleasant enough to hear, to one who hopes never to experience it, but the situation of the inhabitants of this county was certainly rather alarming. The people were almost wholly from regions more southern than this, and knew nothing by experience of dealing with such a depth of snow, and such cold. Indeed, I had then had some experience of New England winter, and have had some since, but I have to this day never seen any other which bore any comparison with that. * * * * The only way in which snow paths were made was by going as nearly as we could in the same place till the snow was finally trodden hard and rounded up like a turnpike. This snow produced constant sleighing for nine weeks, and when at last warm rains and sunshine prevailed, about the first of March, melting the snow from fields and untrodden places, the roads remained as lines of ice which disappeared but gradually. * * We had no railways then, nor indeed any dream of having them. But our mail commuications with the rest of the world were interrupted for several weeks continuously. We, in those days had only one mail a week, and that on horseback, from Springfield, and to bring that thru that snow required more energy than mail boys in these days were masters of.

"I cannot say, after all, that in town there was any very serious amount of suffering—we did get food and fuel. * * * But the loss to the farms in stock and crops was very considerable. Some varieties of wild game were nearly exterminated. Deer were entirely unable to protect themselves from the dogs and the huntsmen."

Mr. Anderson Foreman said the snow drifted to the depth of six feet and more, in places. That the average all over the country was three feet. "It was indeed a season of great hardships and suffering to men and beasts and birds thruout the country."

Somehow President Sturevant's account, which may have been cut down by some one else, fails to refer to that feature of the wintry covering, the heavy, strong coat of ice.

Men had hard times getting fuel and feed out from under the snow, and beasts perished because they could not reach their natural food.

The Sudden Freeze.

At the time the first settlements were made, by Americans, in the "Illinois country," they apparently thought it was one of little cold, and so they were illy prepared for "the Deep Snow" or "the Sudden Freeze." Singularly enough both came in the same decade, and we have had no similar experience, equalling them in severity since.

Some one, telling of the Freeze, said this:

"I was, at the time, boarding with Prof. Turner, who lived in a one story frame dwelling on the lot where now stands the fine brick dwelling of Mr. Henry Hall, on College avenue.

"During the previous night, snow fell to the depth of about eight inches, and at sunrise the next morning it was raining and very warm and foggy, and continued raining until nearly noon. I spent the forenoon in writing, and after dinner started to the postoffice, which was then in the old brick court house, in the public square. The snow was completely saturated with the rain, so that in walking my feet went to the bottom of the snow, till I passed the Female Academy; then the cold wave struck me, and as I drew my feet up the ice would form on my boots until I made a track that looked more like that of a Jumbo than of a No. 7 boot. When I reached the square the ice bore me up and when I returned home a half hour afterwards, I saw the chickens and ducks frozen into the ice, some on one leg, some on both.

"Two young men, who were travelling for Philadelphia merchants, were frozen to death not far from Rushville. One of them was found sitting with his back against a tree with his horse's bridle over his arm, and his horse frozen in front of him. The other young man was partly in a kneeling position, with a tinder box in one hand and a flint in the other—with both eyes open—as tho attempting to light the tinder in the box—that being the usual mode of lighting a fire before the days of friction matches. These young men were here only a few days before, calling on our merchants, and, as was the custom then, travelled on horseback.

"The only other person who was frozen to death, who was known here, I think, was a minister known as Father Brich, then living near Galena."

This "Father Brich" was the Rev. John Brich, an Englishman, who organized the "First Presbyterian church of Morgan County," here in 1827. He was found, sitting at the foot of a tree, rigid.

Mr. Foreman said, "The wagon wheels, when they ceased to roll, froze to the ground; and all animals and birds of all kinds, froze to death far and near. Men killed their horses, and, after disemboweling them, crawled in, and thus saved their own lives."

Very many most harrowing tales were truly told about this "Sudden Freeze."

As noted above, regarding Mr. Brich, the storm extended up into the northern part of this state; and, as the writer recalls, it was felt about as far east as Cincinnati. As there were few settlements of white people beyond the Mississippi at that time, probably few were lost there, at least of white people.

Reliable Medicine for Distressing Bronchial Coughs

Hoarseness, Tickling Throat, Severe Coughing, All Go When Foley's Honey and Tar Is Used.

Bronchitis too often leaves a severe racking cough that weakens the system and paves the way for such grave diseases as pleurisy and pneumonia. Sometimes there is a nervous hacking, worse on arising and at nightfall, that is especially wearing and should by all means be stopped promptly. FOLEY'S Honey and Tar is exactly suited to these conditions. It directly affects the mucous lining of the throat, clearing it at once of hoarseness, removing the tickling phlegm and stopping the severe racking cough.

Coughs usually grow worse at nightfall and prevent the quiet rest so necessary to one weakened by a cold.

Chas. T. Miller, Ed. Cannelton, Ind., Enquirer, writes: "For three years I was troubled with bronchial affections, was hoarse and sometimes could hardly speak louder than a whisper. Had to entirely give up singing, and coughed constantly from sore throat day and night. I took FOLEY'S Honey and Tar and got relief. This spring the trouble arose again. I bought a bottle, took five doses, and have the remainder in the bottle on my desk now, to take if another attack develops. It is great for bronchial colds and coughs.

RICHEST GIRL WILL WED ITALIAN PRINCE

Washington Society Interested in Coming Nuptials—Bride To Be Has Great Wealth.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11—Capital society is all a-flutter in anticipation of the wedding of Miss Margaret Preston Draper and Prince Andrea Boncompagni, of Rome, Italy, which is to take place here near the end of this month. The bride-to-be is a daughter of the late General William F. Draper, who was a representative in Congress from Massachusetts and later United States ambassador to Italy.

Miss Draper is known as the richest unmarried woman in Washington and has been one of the leading hostesses in this city. Her dinners, musicales, teas and balls given at her residence here have been among the most notable events of the social seasons. The ball at which she made her debut several years ago is still the talk of the capital. Hundreds of humming birds, released in a tropical forest, were one feature of the decorative effects. Other balls given by Miss Draper the past few years have been almost as elaborate and the throng which gathers for these costume affairs is the most distinguished that Washington knows.

The money which has made these functions possible comes largely from enormous mills at Hopedale, Mass., where machinery for cotton manufacturing is made. How many millions General Draper left is not definitely known, altho he bequeathed Miss Draper $6,000,000. From her mother, who was the beautiful Miss Preston of Kentucky, Miss Draper will inherit many millions more.

Miss Draper has spent much time in European travel with her mother. She already has been presented at the court of St. James and has had much experience of social life abroad. She is the namesake and god-daughter of Queen Margherita of Italy, who presented her with one of her famous pearls as the nucleus of a necklace. The stone given by the "Pearl of Savoy" has been equalled by others, which have been added by Miss Draper's parents and the young woman's string of pearls is famous.

Prince Andrea Boncompagni, who has won the hand of the Washington heiress, is of an old Italian family and was born in Rome in 1884. An uncle (his father's brother) is head of the house. The prince has served in the army in the present war and received injuries which interrupted his service. He came to America on a special leave of absence last spring, visited Mrs. Draper and her daughter in Washington. He then returned to Italy, coming back again to continue his attentions to the young woman, who, as his wife, is to become an Italian princess.

AT THE GRAND TODAY.

The Time, The Place and The Girl is one of the few musical comedies with a real story. It is one of the most appealing stage tales that has ever been written which no doubt accounts in a great measure for the wonderful success the play has enjoyed.

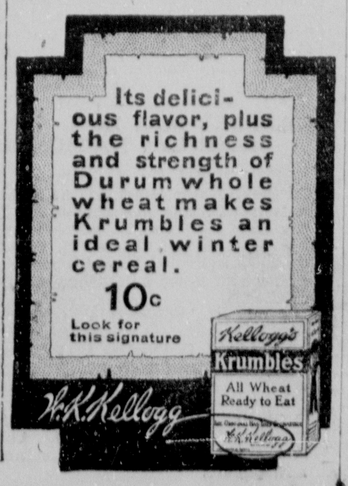

The story concerns the adventures of one Johnny Hicks, a gambler and Tom Cunningham, a rich young New Yorker. It appears that previous to the opening of the play the pair has been engaged in a fracas in which some fellow was severely beaten up. The duo escapes to a sanitarium in Virginia. Here Johnny falls in love with the head nurse and Tom encounters the girl of his choice. Then the fellow who suffered the beating the night before is brought in. It transpires that he is the brother of the nurse. Of course there are complications and likewise they are straightened out in true musical comedy style.

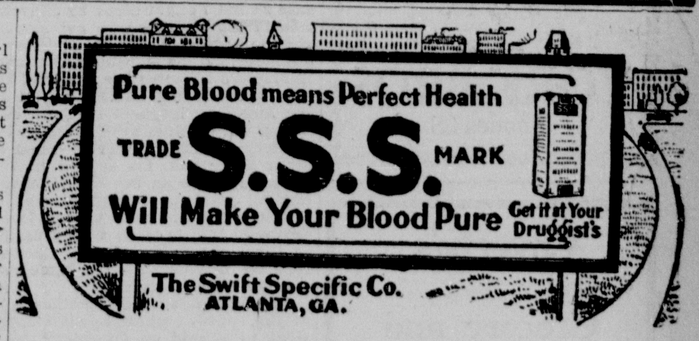

There are twenty musical novelties in The Time, The Place and The Girl. The production is especially elaborate.

This is one of the productions which will be staged at the Grand Opera House during the three days engagement of Boyle-Worfolk Comedy Co., which will open today.

New York, Oct. 11.—The Boston Americans drew one notch nearer the world's championship here this afternoon when they defeated the Brooklyn Nationals 6 to 2, in the fourth game of the series, which now stands 3 to 1, in the Red Sox's favor. Tomorrow the conflict will be renewed at Braves' Field, Boston, where the fifth and what the Red Sox hope will be the deciding game, will be played. Columbus Day is a legal holiday in Massachusetts and the indications point to an enormous attendance.

With today's contest at Ebbet's Field, the players ceased to participate in the financial returns and the Boston men with their two game lead are eager to close the season and receive their reward. Brooklyn players, however, are determined to win if possible and force the Red Sox to return to Brooklyn where the home team can make a last desperate stand.

Pitcher "Dutch" Leonard spotted the Nationals' two runs in the opening inning today but his teammates more than made up the handicap in the second session and once in the van refused to permit Brooklyn to creep up on them. The contest, altho featured by several sensational plays, did not rise much above the average of a regular season contest. Once Leonard swung into form the Brooklyn batters found it impossible to push a runner around to the plate because of his steady pitching. Long, slashing hits ripped off the bats of Boston to be charged against the account of Brooklyn pitchers, while splendid catches, stops, and throws made the way easy for Leonard.

The Brooklyn club gave its supporters great hopes of repeating the victory of Tuesday when two runs were put over in the first inning on Johnson's triple, Meyer's single, a base on balls and an error by Janvrin, who in his eagerness to get Meyers at the plate fumbled Cutshaw's grounder. Rube Marquard, Manager Robinson's selection for a second try against the Boston batters staved off the American leaguers in the initial inning but Gardner took much of the mystery out of his delivery when he hit a home run, his second in two days, with two on bases in the succeeding session. Marquard walked Hoblitzel the first man up and Lewis advanced him to third with a double to the right field fence. Gardner then cleaned up with his home run, a drive to deep center.

The Red Sox added another tally in the fourth when Lewis singled, went to second on Gardner's sacrifice and scored on Manager Carrigan's single.

Another was added in the fifth when Cheney who replaced Marquard in the box after Pfeffer had batted for the former, passed Hooper who stole second and scored on Hoblitzell's double. The final run of the game came in the seventh. Janvrin, second up, forced Hooper who had singled, went to second on Walker's sacrifice and scored when Hoblitzell grounded to Cheney whose throw to first hit the runner.

Cheney was soon afterwards replaced by Nap Rucker, one of the greatest southpaws when at the height of his career. Rucker, pitching with deliberateness, wide sweeping curves held the Bostonians scoreless to the end. In the two innings he held command he fanned three of the six batters that faced him and allowed but one hit. Of the four twirlers in the game, Leonard's work was the best. He allowed but five hits in nine innings, struck out three gave four bases on balls and made one wild pitch. Boston collected ten hits off Brooklyn's three pitchers for a total of fifteen bases, while Brooklyn secured five hits for eight bases. Hooper made the only base steal of the day and Boston used but nine players to the home club's fifteen.

It was a perfect Indian summer day with a clear sky and just a suggestion of a south wind, yet the stands showed many vacant seats, altho the attendance was a trifle larger than on Tuesday. The official figures showed that 21,662 spectators were present and that the receipts were $72,840. Of this the players will receive $39,333.60; each club $13,111.20, and the National Commission $7,284. The total attendance for the four games to date are as follows: Attendance, 120,239; receipts, $301,717.50; players' share, $162,927.45; each club's share, $54,309.17; National Commission's share, $30,171.75.

The players' share of the receipts for the first four games will be divided upon a basis of sixty per cent to the winners of the series and forty per cent to the losers, which will give $97,756.45 to be divided among the members of the winning club and $65,169.98 for the losing club players.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS DESTROYS DANDRUFF AND STOPS FALLING HAIR

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scuff.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producting a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.—Adv.

CATLIN RETURNS TO MILLIKIN SQUAD

Appearance of Star Tackle and Kicker Boosts Decatur School's Stock.

With the appearance of Joe Catlin in a Millikin suit, the prospects of the Blue and White team received a big boost. It was especially noticeable in the two games this season that Millikin was weakest when it came to punting. Several men have been tried out as kickers, but without exception they failed to produce the brand of punts which Catlin's toe has accustomed the followers of Millikin's football career to seeing. The line will also be bolstered in the weaker places by Catlin's addition to the squad.

Important Game.

The opening game on Millikin field is going to be beyond question, one of the most important games in the whole schedule which confronts Millikin this fall. After playing scoreless with Macomb Normal last Saturday, the Bloomington teachers raced way with a couple of forward passes which won the game for them by a very decisive score.

SOME FAR MTEAMS

Livestock Figures

The present year to date has been a record-breaker in livestock trade in so far as prices go. Cattle in the Chicago market in June, August and September, reached $11.50; hogs in September, $11.60; and lambs, in May, $12.90; all of these being record prices. Receipts of cattle, hogs and sheep for the first nine months of 1916 have exceeded those of the same classes of stcok for 1915, but the comparison is not fair because quarantines interfered with 1915 livestock trade. Averaging receipts at Chicago for the first nine months of 1912-13-14, and comparing with the same period of 1916, we have the following figures: the three-year average—cattle, 1,792,370; hogs, 5,162,027; sheep, 3,981,013. Figures for the same period of 1916 (first nine months)—cattle, 1,803,126; hogs, 6,216,943; sheep, 2,928,357. Cattle receipts are about the same, hog receipts have increased in number by over one million head, while sheep have decreased by about the same number. Trade in choice steers has continued steady at high prices, while poor quality stuff, the supply of which has been large, has fluctuated in price from time to time a great deal. In the hog trade, prices have ruled high all summer, the trade revealing surprising strength, tho a drop came about the first of October, with prices still very high, considering the unusually heavy receipts of the year to date. Sheep have ruled extremely high, which was to be expected in view of the very light receipts during the year. Supplies of livestock have not been, and do not promise to be overabundant, and with grain of all kinds bringing big prices, it is reasonable to expect that high prices for livestock will continue for some time.—The Farmers' Review, Chicago.

BURGLARY AT BROOK MILLS.

Burglars entered the office of the Brook Mills some time, Tuesday night. Cash to the amount of $2 was secured from the cash register. The burglars gained entrance thru the mill and raised a window opening into the office from the mill. The office employe had forgotten to lock the safe when business closed and the burglars scattered papers all over the office. However, there was no cash in the safe. The firm had just purchased a new cash register and this was broken open. The police were notified but as yet no clue has been obtained. It is the opinion of the police that the work is that of local talent.

EDW. CLIFFORD IN CAMPAIGN WORK

Edward Clifford of Chicago, formerly of Jacksonville and Virginia is now working with the National Senatorial Committee in New York City and will be there most of the time until the close of the campaign. The following from Mr. Clifford recently appeared in the Evanston News Index relative to the personal side of Mr. Hughes.

"The impression has got abroad that Governor Hughes is a cold, unsympathetic, repellent sort of man, out of touch with the average American. I know of my own knowledge that this is not true.

"My association with the Republican National Senatorial Committee has brought me into touch with Governor Hughes and I have had splendid opportunity to observe the manner of man he is. I have seen him traveling and at home, in the West and in the East, on the stump and at receptions, alone and in the crowd, and recently sat in a two hour conference with him and his managers, and the real human Hughes is totally unlike the haughty iceberg his opponents are picturing him.

"Governor Hughes is as fine a type of American manhood and democratic citizenship as I have ever met. He impresses one instantly with his honesty, sincerity, kindliness and simplicity; his mind is keen and alert, and while a clear and interesting talker, he has the rare gift of being a good listener. He has the judicial temperament; he wants all the facts in a case before he decides; but having assimilated all the facts his decision is swift, sure and amazingly sane.

"He has the saving grace of humor, and while carrying calm and dignity he puts on no "airs." He is big enough to put every one who meets him at ease, and in his quiet way draw the best from them. Hughes' frankness and tolerance appeal to you. He stands for fair play and his sympathies are always with the "under-dog."

"I am profoundly impressed by the character of the Republican candidate for President, by the vigor and soundness of his personality and by his elements of leadership, and if elected, and I confidently believe he will be, he will be a remarkably able and efficient Executive."

FAMOUS CASE BEFORE HIGH TRIBUNAL

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11—The appeals in the cases of F. Drew Caminetti and Maury I. Diggs, convicted in the Federal courts in California of violation of the Mann white slave law, are expected to come up for hearing before the Supreme Court of the United States within the next few days. The cases have been before the courts for more than two years. The prominence of the defendants, and the various men of note who became implicated, made the cases the most widely discussed Mann white slave prosecutions in the country.

Caminetti is the son of the Untied States commissioner general of immigration, while Diggs is a former State architect of California. They wore convicted of having taken Miss Lola Norris and Miss Marsha Warrington, two Sacramento schoolgirls, to Reno, Nev. The girls were the chief witnesses against the two men, both of whom were married and had families. The testimony of the girls was that under threats and promises they had been induced to accompany the two young men to Reno, where they rented a furnished cottage and lived as married couples for more than a week.

Diggs was given a sentence of two years and Caminetti a sentence of eighteen months' imprisonment. Since his conviction Diggs' wife has been divorced and he has married Miss Warrington, so that, should the court uphold his conviction, he will have to go to prison for two years for taking his wife on a honeymoon trip before they were married.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Woodall, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Coultas all came up to the city yesterday from Winchester in Mr. Hogan's Cadillac car.

DEPRESSION IN WHEAT BEGINS AT OUTSET

Reports that British Buying in Australia Would Divert Ships Away From U. S. Lowers Price—Market Closes Unsettled with December at $1.58⅞ and May at $1.57¼.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Wheat values weakened today, largely on account of reports that heavy purchasing in Australia by the British government would divert ships away from the United States. The market closed unsettled, with December at $1.58⅛ and May at $1.57¼. Corn lost ¼@⅜ cents and oats ⅜ to ¾@⅞ cents. The outcome for provisions was unchanged to 37½ cents higher.

Depression in wheat began as soon as the market opened. Word was at hand that the first development under the new plan of complete government control of wheat imports for the United Kingdom was the buying of an immense stock in Australia, 18,500,000 bushels. The bulls were also handicapped by continued rumors that the stocks of wheat in Canadian terminal elevators would be commandered, and by a renewal of peace gossip.

Selling on the declines in the wheat market appeared to be overcome, as a rallying tendency was displayed at times during the last half of the session. One reason seemed to be that the peace talk did not appear to have any substantial fresh basis.

Corn sagged with wheat. For the most part, oats merely reflected the weakness of other grain. Selling pressure was not of an aggressive character.

Peace talk was regarded as bullish by the provision trade. Higher prices on hogs tended further to lift the market.

HEAVY SELLING LOWERS STOCK QUOTATIONS

Lowest Prices Recorded in Final Hour—Many Speculative Issues Register Declines of 2 to 5 Points.

New York, Oct. 11.—Extreme susceptibility to liquidation and to pressure today indicated that the stock market was still suffering from the shock of the early week, when prices fell five to over fifteen points on the news of German submarine operations. Gross declines today of 2 to five points were registered by many of the more speculative issues while representative shares yielded from one to three points.

Lowest quotations were recorded in the final hour, that period witnessing the heaviest selling of the session.

Under the surface there were signs that public interest was lacking.

The short interest evidently seized upon this situation as an opportunity to extend its lines.

Operations for the decline were accompanied by disquieting reports and rumors. Total sales aggregated 1,375,000 shares.

The bond market was irregular, total sales par value amounting to $4,855,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Democrats Have Failed To Keep Their Platform Promises

Congressman George E. Foss Points to Records for the Proof of His Charges

Living Costs Have Constantly Increased Since Underwood Bill Was Enacted—Government Expenses Greater and Countless Jobs Created—Republican Return To Power Will Mean Protection for American Industry and for Citizens At Home or Abroad.

Wednesday was Republican day at the Jacksonville Fall Festival, and Congressman George E. Foss of Lake county was the speaker. He arrived on the Wabash train at 2 o'clock and very shortly afterward was introduced to the large audience which had assembled in Central Park, by Charles B. Graff, chairman of the Morgan county Republican central committee. Before going to the park the congressman was at the Dunlap where he was met by Mr. Graff, John J. Reeve, Major C. E. McDougall, Former Mayor G. W. Davis and Roy Mawson.

Congressman Foss, who is an orator of no mean ability, attacked the record of the Democratic party on two principal lines of argument. He proved that the party had not fulfilled the promises or the pledges made in the 1912 platform, that there had been a lack of constructive legislation during the present administration and that honor claimed for certain enactments should be shared with the Republican party. It was an address clear simple and forceful and without effort at ornate language, and evidently with the hope that the people in this campaign will without prejudice consider all the facts and then act accordingly.

Promises vs. Performance

Among other things he said, "My text today is found in the lines from the Democratic platform wherein the party challenged comparison of its record with any other party in keeping promises and in constructive legislation. The Democrats in that platform declared in favor of the exemption of American ships from Panama Canal tolls. President Taft had favored the exemption of American ships engaged in coast wise trade on the theory that this policy would aid in building up the shipping business of the U. S.

"Notwithstanding the promise in the platform, not long after President Wilson had entered upon the office he asked for a repeal of that measure and used his influence in securing that repeal. He believed that an expansion of American commerce would come with tolls exemption and that a closer competition between water and rail transportation would result which would benefit the whole people. President Wilson said the repeal would make it easier for him in certain diplomatic matters. The real reason has never been made public and nobody knows just what it is.

Civil Service Ignored

"The Democratic platform expressed belief in civil service and yet a page from the records will show you how many positions in the public service have been exempted from the operation of civil service. The party expressed opposition to useless offices and yet during this administration 30,000 positions have been added, at an expense to the government of $30,000,000.

"The Democratic party in 1912 declared in favor of the restriction of immigration and congress passed an immigration bill and President Wilson vetoed the measure. An immigration bill has passed the house in the present congress and is being held in the senate until after election.

"Four years ago Republicans were attacked for the vast appropriations made and yet under Democratic rule the first congress appriated nearly $200,000,000 more than the preceding congress and the present congress is going still further in the matter of appropriations.

"The Democratic platform advocated the prosecution of trusts and no where in the record of this administration can it be found that any prosecutions against trusts have been pushed with speed and consistency. A federal trade commission was appointed to look after business affairs but it is composed entirely of Democrats.

Protection For Citizens

"The Democratic platform promised protection for American lives and yet the records show 300 citizens killed on the American border in addition to the great number that have lost their lives upon the seas.

"The 1912 Democratic platform declared in favor of reduction of railroad rates and since that time there have been nothing but increases ordered by the interstate commerce commission and approved by the president.

"The great issue of 1912 was the high cost of living, with the declaration that it was the Republican policy of protection that was forcing prices up. They rang the changes on that charge and said that they would take off the tariff duties and reduce living cost. Ever since the passage of the Underwood tariff bill which took those duties off, the cost of living has gone up.

Single Presidential Term

"The Democratic platform of 1912 advocated a single term and now it is up to the people themselves to see that that promise is made good. I believe that you will agree with me after consideration of these promisos and the record of performance, that the Democratic platform of 1912 was written 'to go in on, and not to stand on.'

"The party has claimed that a great amount of constructive legislation has been secured during this administration and they referred particularly to the Underwood tariff bill. This bill promised to lower the living cost, to pay the expense of the government, to increase foreign trade and not to hurt industry at home. How well these promises made about the bill have been carried out, you can judge from the facts. You can remember business conditions just before the opening of the great European war, with thousands of employes in all lines out of work, and there was every appearance of conditions like those which prevailed during the Cleveland administration, when the Wilson bill brought about a panic. It was only the war which changed these conditions.

War Order Prosperity

"Senator Ollie James in a speech not long since referred to President Wilson as having brought prosperity to a hundred million people. To make that statement true one must look upon President Wilson as the cause of the war. You need but to consult the foreign trade figures to get at the truth of this matter. During the year ending June 30, 1914, we shipped abroad horses to the value of $3,388,000 and in the year ending June 30, 1916, the shipments of horses had a value of $73,000,000. The same comparisons show automobile shipments in 1914 were $53,000,000 and in 1916 $120,000,000; in 1914 chemical shipments $27,000,000 and in 1916 $124,000,000; explosives in 1914 $966,669 and in 1916 $252,000,000. Grain shipments were barley 1914 $4,000,000 and in 1916 $20,000,000; corn 1914 $7,000,000 and in 1916 $30,000,000; oats 1914 $756,000, 1916 $47,000,000; wheat 1914 $37,000,000; 1916 $215,000,000.

"Our prosperity was war created and bloodstained and I hope the time will never come when the Republican party must boast of business prosperity built upon the agony and the sorrow of any country on the globe. Let our prosperity be based on the operation of economic laws and this can be done if we furnish right protection of American industry.

Preparation for After War Days

"The Republican party believes in preparation for those conditions which will come after the war—beneves that this country must have protection from the flood of foreign importations which will certainly come when conditions abroad become normal, unless we have protecting laws. Farmers will remember that just before the war began prices were being affected by the shipments of grain from foreign countries. and it is recorded that we even had shipments of eggs from China.

"About the silliest claim made for the administration is that President Wilson has kept us out of war. No country wanted war with us. Congress was not forcing war. It was different when McKinley was president, for a minority in congress day after day was attempting to force the president to declare war with Spain, and President Wilson has not been bothered in that way. While there was a demand in certain quarters for war and continued attacks were made upon him, President McKinley stood calm. Then when the demand came from many quarters President McKinley bowed to the will of the American people. It is the people who bring war in this country when it comes, and President Wilson felt no such demand. It is absurd—this talk about President Wilson keeping us out of war.

The Child Labor Law

"The Democratic party is claiming a great deal of credit for the child labor bill. Study the records and you will find that it was a Republican who introduced the bill several years ago. In this congress the bill could not be brought out of the house committee without Republican aid. On the floor of the house the fight against it was led by Democratic congressmen from the south and forty six of them voted no. The bill would not have passed but for Republican aid.

"The federal reserve bill is accounted one of the great and important accomplishments of the Wilson administration. In his Detroit speech Wilson said that the federal reserve act had kept the country from a panic when the war came on. The real truth is that the federal reserve act was not in operation when the war came on, and this statement is proven from the utterances of William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, who in December 1914 wrote, "The war has injected many new problems into the finances of the country. These problems have been met and solved in a satisfactory way without the aid of the federal reserve act, which was not yet in operation to give aid."

Federal Reserve System

"I hope the federal reserve law will be as good a measure as it promises, but you must remember that the federal reserve act is the outgrowth of the Aldrich bill, a Republican measure. Years ago Senator Aldrich introduced a bill for the appointment of a monetary commission to study the monetary systems of the world. This commission after years of investigation brought in the Aldrich bill, which with some changes and amendments later resulted in the establishment of the federal reserve system.

Shifting Positions

"No finer example of the shifting ways of Democracy can be found than in the appointment of a tariff commission. What will be the duty of a tariff commission other than to study the cost of production in foreign countries and the cost of production at home The Democratic party is professedly opposed to all protection and therefore what is the value of studying these cost conditions? The thought behind the tariff commission from a Democratic standoint is to secure votes. Only recently the Democrats passed a law for the protection of dyestuffs and it remained for Oscar Underwood, the dyed in the wool Democrat, to make a fight against the measure because it was absolutely opposed to the doctrines which Democracy has all along taught. This tariff commission and dyestuffs action of congress reminds me of that paraphrase of a line from Eugene Field, 'Jes' before election I'm as good as I can be.'"

Peace With Honor.

"If the Republican party is returned to power in the November election the interests of American citizens will receive merited attention and they will be protected no matter in what clime or country they happen to be. We believe in a strong army and a stronger navy in order to give force to our diplomacy. We must have the ability to back up our word. Any nation can have peace that is willing to surrender to every demand. The Republican party believes in peace but peace with honor, and in war if it must com eto preserve that honor. The Democratic congress passed the navy enlargement bill with the aid of Republican votes but so far that enlargement of the navy is on paper only and nobody can see any work in progress.

"For twelve years I was chairman of the naval committee in congress and at that time the navy of the U. S. ranked second in the world. And the navy was placed in that position against the influence and protest of the Democrats. When the sixty-first congress was convened one of the first things done was an agreement among the Democrats that no Democrat should vote for the addition of a battleship a year to the navy. The Republican policy has been two battleships and one cruiser a year. Subsequently the Democratic agreement was modified and any Democrat who was so disposed could vote for one battleship without violating the agreement with his brethern.

Then and Now.

"We find an example of Wilson's changing attitude in his views on military preparation. A year ago he told us there was no danger of war—that no enlargement of the army or navy was needed. Then within a year in his St. Louis speech he suggested military preparation that would place the country second to none.

"The Republican party believes, I say, in the protection of American citizens wherever located. The condition should be like that which prevailed in the Morocco incident, when a message was sent from the American people "Perdicaras alive or Rausili dead." The words were few but the message took effect for our fleet sailed swiftly into the Bay of Tangiers and was ready there to enforce the message is necessary. It was a comparatively humble American citizen who was thus rescued from danger and he told me the story with his own lips.

"Let us have the American name one of honor around the world and this will be the condition if the Republicans are returned to power and we have cabinet men of the calibre of John Hay and Elihu Root."

SOLDIERS GOT RELIEF FROM SORENESS

Boys On the Border Relieved Their Pains and Aches With Sloan's Liniment

Once upon a time Norman Jones, serving in the National Guard at El Paso, returned to camp after a strenuous 15 mile hike foot-sore and leg-weary. He had not been long in active service and his shoulders, back and limbs felt the after-effects of marching.

Remembering Sloan's Liniment, Jones applied it to the sore spots and went to bed. He writes, "I arose the next morning feeling fine; in fact I had entirely forgotten about the hike and went out for a four-hour drill in the sun as spry as ever."

Private Jones passed the experience along, and many a boy on the border relieved the agony of sprains, strains, bruises, insect bites, cramped muscles, rheumatic twinges, etc., by the use of Sloan's Liniment.

Easily applied without rubbing. At all druggists, 25c, 50c, and $1.00.
